Lloyd to perform

Thursday, April 28, 2005

Juliet Lloyd, an award-winning singer/songwriter from Boston will be making her Northern Massachusetts-area debut at the Java Room in Chelmsford on Saturday, May 7, at 8 p.m.

The Java Room is located at 14 Littleton Road (Phone 978-256-0001).

Juliet has drawn frequent comparisons to Alicia Keys and Norah Jones with her piano-driven blend of pop, jazz, and soul. She has been described as "possessing the kind of voice that stops you in your tracks," while her original songs showcase a natural musicality that has been honed through years of studying both piano and trumpet.

Educated at Berklee College of Music, she recently received an honorable mention in the 2004 Billboard Songwriting Contest, as well as won Berklee's 2005 Songwriting Contest, with two different songs that will appear on her upcoming debut album, All Dressed Up, which will be released at the end of April.

Juliet has appeared at venues throughout New England and in her native upstate New York.
